Don Straus is the founder and CEO of First Light Biosciences, a company that develops automated medical diagnostic products for the rapid detection of healthcare associated infections. He previously founded Rapid Micro Biosystems and Genomic Profiling Systems.

Straus holds a bachelor’s degree in chemistry from the University of California and a PhD in biochemistry and molecular biology from Harvard University.